

Converged VoIP

Better, more reliable and affordable business communication

Business as usual starts with communications. Whether between colleagues or customers, sending the right message is essential. It's time to ask yourself if the systems you've relied upon for years are holding you back or helping you get ahead. If you have to think about it, you probably already know the answer.

Why Segra Converged VoIP

When it's time to take care of business, few things matter more than communicating. Except, of course, for your ability to communicate in the first place. Standalone legacy connections have worked well enough for years, but they're falling further and further behind.

Segra Converged VoIP raises the bar for business voice and data, uniting both on a high-speed circuit that delivers greater flexibility and affordability. The best part? Legacy equipment – including fax machines, scanners, PBX and key systems – can integrate seamlessly without adding costly new hardware.

Business-critical communications shouldn't be a chore. It's time to go from where it is to where you need it to be

Features and Benefits

- Get the assistance and peace of mind you need with 24/7 monitoring by the Segra Network Operations Center and live support from our Customer Support Center.
- Three available configurations – 3x3, 5x5 and 10x10 – provide flexibility to match the demands of your business to the level of bandwidth you need.
- Legacy device compatibility allows you to keep the equipment you already have – the only thing that's different is the way communications are sent and received.
- "Grow-as-you-go" scalability makes it easy to control costs and bandwidth requirements as your business needs change.
